THE DOG SHOW.

Brought to a Close Last Evening.

The Exhibition Proved a Financial Success.

Prominent Part Taken by the Gentler Sex.

They Were Among the Most Interested of the Exhibitors, and Their Entries Secured Very Many Prizes.

The dog show closed last night after a four days' successful exhibition. The attendance was large, especially later in the day, and a number of children were brought to see the canines. The show is stated to have been a success financially as well as otherwise. There were many complimentary expressions of the show as a whole, and especially of the high standard of dogs exhibited. The following petition was kept at a place convenient yesterday and received considerably more than one hundred signatures:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Los Angeles respectfully draw your honorable body's attention to a charge of 50 cents made by the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Company for carrying a dog upon the street cars, and request that you have the influence in having this order rescinded. We would suggest that dogs should only be allowed to be carried on the dummy of the cable car or the forward end of the electric horse-cars, and that the charge should be reduced to 25 cents for the transportation of any single dog."

The present rule works a great hardship on many citizens and we can see that the above alteration would result in any annoyance or damage to any street-car company or any of its passengers."

WOMEN AT THE SHOW.

Man may claim superiority over women in many things but it is at the dog show that he is forced to admit her equal and to her credit be it said that when the judges have placed the ribbon she generally sees above the kennel of her pet one of the coveted colors. Men have been monopolizing the dog shows until recently when the general awakening of woman in various lines led them to their hand at kennel shows. Man has, however, taken most kindly to this invasion, and with natural chivalry is delighted at her success. This interest in the dog show on the part of women has become universal and has done much to popularize it. It is natural in every woman to have some pet and as cats are looked on with distrust owing to the unpleasant old-maid idea attached to them, the canine has been cultivated with avidity. It is not surprising when the only interest women had in bench shows was in going to pet the various animals on exhibition. Now it is different. Women have been practical fanciers. They place their animals on exhibition with the best and are willing to have it a fair field and no favors. It is not the exhibitors who monopolize the rails about the judging ring, but the women. To a casual observer it would appear as though the honor of the family depended upon the average woman exhibitor's canine winning. While a favorable decision may mean money to the male exhibitor, he has his nerves in better training than the women, who regard the judge with evident misgivings. They do not, however, several days beforehand when the judge is to be passed upon, and an early rush for seats on that day invariably results. They not only bring with them members of the family they can, but several friends as well. Of course, about the first thing they do is to hunt up the attendant and proceed to instruct him how the dog must be taken into the ring, and held while they, in fact, many of the more enthusiastic take them into their own hands. The ladies are always interested spectators, the exhibitors being especially well posted regarding history in general. They also have some particularly breed on which they have authority, and as a rule, can discuss points and management of dogs with excellent judgment. Women are naturally more critical observers than men, and frequently seize up a dog more thoroughly. Some of the closest students of the fair sex. They keep thoroughly alive to the most interesting features of a show, and can give the history and pedigree of every dog of note. Among the visitors are some women who do not know the difference between a Great Dane and a Mexican hairless dog. These are looked on with pity, not unmixed with contempt, by their more advanced sisters. In regard to the favorite breed of dogs, with snate to the same extent as men, several years ago, St. Bernards, mastiffs and even Great Danes, are to be seen promenading the streets by the side of their mistresses, while the pug and poodle are left at home with the children. Of the smaller dogs, one of the favorites among women is the fox terrier. These canines are bright, clever little animals, and can be taken care of with such little trouble. They are very companionable, and their "scrapping" propensities delight the feminine heart.

At the sixth annual bench show of the Southern California Kennel Club, which closed last evening, there were seventeen dogs entered by women. Nearly every one of these entries received a prize of some sort, the majority being either first or second. The largest exhibits were among the pug and cocker spaniels. In the latter class Mrs. E. Kadish of this city received the greatest number of awards. In class No. 3—open, dogs under 25 pounds, her King Douglas, sire, Pekoe; dam, Little Lady, was given second, while Mrs. B. S. Taylor, of Dan Slater, sire, Dandy Stubbs; dam, Fleet, in the corresponding class for Queen; sire, Champion Red Jacket; dam, Champion King Phoenix; sire, got third ribbon, / and Sprite, sire, Cherry Boy; dam, Little Gypsie, entered by Mrs. S. Taylor, was awarded second prize. In the bitch puppy class Mrs. Kadish got second dog, Woodland Red Queen. These beautiful silky coats being in perfect condition. Naturally the pug exhibit was good, all the animals in this class except two being shown by women. Of these Miss Daisy Sumner's Victoria was especially fine and was one of the small breed. The litter exhibited by Mrs. H. E. Memory of this city was excellent and were greatly admired, as was shown by the number of sales. Mrs. W. G. Brittan of San Francisco also had a fine bitch on exhibition, Maud, which received one of the prizes. Royal Dusky, in the dog class, entered by the same lady, also took a prize. Miss Alice M. Brooks of Santa Monica received second for Ned in the novice dog class of fox terriers. Mrs. John W. Mitchell exhibited Lomita W. in the open bitch class. This is a very fine animal and her litter attracted much attention. Mrs. M. S. Severance received the blue ribbon for the Bitch in class I, mastiff class, large dogs. Bishop is a noble animal and is a great pet at her handsome residence on Adams street. He was bred by M. E. Bragdon, sire, Amador, dam, Wand, and was whelped December 23, 1890.

In St. Bernard puppies Mrs. Mary E. Fraze was awarded second prize for California Wonder. His sire was Sir Herbert and dam Tabitha. Mrs. H. E. Small was given first prize for Figaro in the great Dane dog puppy class. Mrs. S. Taylor of Pasadena exhibited Oak Glen Victress in the bitch puppy class of greyhounds and got first ribbon. Mrs. H. M. Towner of North Ontario also got first for Amyrill in the bitch class of challenge pointers.

Mrs. C. M. Shaw's Sport, Irish setter dog, was commended. The wildest dog in the show was the Mexican hairless dog of Mrs. A. B. Bates, which got first prize for looking like a wise monkey. As the ladies the ladies have cause to feel elated over the excellent results attained at the show and next year will doubtless bring many more out.

THE PASSOVER.

Services at the Synagogue—Rabbi Blum's Sermon.

The Passover services at the synagogue yesterday morning began at 10 o'clock sharp. Rabbi A. Blum was assisted by a full choir, under Prof. Engel. Mrs. Mendelson of New York sang with exquisite taste. Her voice is exceptionally good. The synagogue was crowded with worshippers.

Rabbi Blum delivered a very interesting sermon on "The Different Phases of Judaism." A great change, he said, is going on today. The destinies of Israel all over the world. A change upon which we cannot meditate enough. America's example is followed by all nations. The Jewish question of humanity, in which people of all denominations have become interested.

There are three principal things to notice, Israel forming a nation, Israel everywhere persecuted and Israel reinstated into society at large. As this tends to the extinction of the word of God, thereby fulfilling the promises of the prophets. Israel rebelled more than once against the divine will, which had to come forth in various lines led them to their hand at kennel shows. Man has, however, taken most kindly to this invasion, and with natural chivalry is delighted at her success. This interest in the dog show on the part of women has become universal and has done much to popularize it. It is natural in every woman to have some pet and as cats are looked on with distrust owing to the unpleasant old-maid idea attached to them, the canine has been cultivated with avidity. ST. PAUL'S PASTOR.

Rev. John Gray Has Accepted the Permanent Charge.

For some six months the Rev. John Gray, late rector of the Church of the Advent in San Francisco, has been in temporary charge of St. Paul's Church in this city. During these six months the congregation of this church has increased very greatly in numbers. The financial condition of the parish has improved very materially and matters in general have assumed a most hopeful outlook. At the Easter meeting the great annual meeting of the church, the provisions for a great musical service, the widening of the usefulness of the church, so as to reach all classes of people, have been discussed. The great annual meeting of the church, the provisions for a great musical service, the widening of the usefulness of the church, so as to reach all classes of people, have been discussed.

The first was upon the body of Miss Agnes Pleasance, the young lady who committed suicide in a fit of despondency on Thursday night last. The testimony taken before the jury was merely a reiteration of the facts already published in connection with the sad affair, and the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to her death from the effects of arsenical poisoning administered with suicidal intent, in accordance therewith.

TWO INQUESTS.

Inquiry into the Death of Agnes Pleasance—Another Case.

Coroner Cases held two inquests yesterday morning, one at No. 1127 South Olive street and the other at Verdugo Park.

The first was upon the body of Miss Agnes Pleasance, the young lady who committed suicide in a fit of despondency on Thursday night last. The testimony taken before the jury was merely a reiteration of the facts already published in connection with the sad affair, and the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to her death from the effects of arsenical poisoning administered with suicidal intent, in accordance therewith.

The second was upon the body of Mrs. S. A. Meyers, a native of Missouri, 38 years of age, who died at her residence at Verdugo Park of consumption. From the testimony of a firm believer in Christian Science she was, however, frequently visited by others of the same faith, who, beyond praying at her bedside, did nothing to relieve her suffering. Upon learning these facts the jury returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Meyers' death was hastened by lack of medical attention, adding a rider, as follows: "And we do condemn the treatment of so-called Christian Scientists."

FAILED TO CONNECT.

John Fisher of Antelope Valley in Search of His Family.

John Fisher of Antelope Valley is looking for his wife and five children. He was recently arrived in this city from Missouri. They are supposed to be stopping at some lodging-house. Mr. Fisher is at the Natick.

ON THE TRAIL.

The Search for the Murderers of Old John Hawkins.

The two men who killed and robbed old John Hawkins at Wilmington Thursday night last are still at large, in spite of the efforts of the officers to run them down, but Sheriff Cline is confident that their capture is only a question of time, as he and Detective Insley obtained very good descriptions of the suspects, who have been sent out broadcast to every officer in this and neighboring counties.

Deputy Sheriff Cass Cline and a Wilmington officer, who were on duty yesterday afternoon upon a new trial in response to information received at the Sheriff's office earlier in the day, but whether they would be successful in obtaining, and as nothing had been heard from them up to a late hour last night the presumption is that they had not succeeded in their search.

STRUCK WATER.

A Monte Rancher's Success With an Artesian Well.

A report reached the city yesterday that a remarkably strong flow of artesian water had been struck by a farmer named Hayes, at a point about one and one-half miles northeast of El Monte. The water was reached at a depth of seventy-two feet below the surface, and measured sixty six inches, constant flow. Ranchers owning property adjoining the well are very much excited over the water "find," and several of them have made arrangements already to put down wells. The supposition is that the stream of water has its origin in the San Gabriel River, and that it is a part of that which disappears in the sand far up toward the mountains and finds its outlet through the underground channel.

EJECTED WITH VIOLENCE.

Jack Walsh, a Teamster, Called at the Office of the Pioneer Truck Company.

At 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning Jack Walsh, a teamster, called at the office of the Pioneer Truck Company, on Market street, to collect some money which was due him for services rendered. As he was somewhat intoxicated the cashier paid him some money on account, but withheld the balance until he sobered up. Walsh, however, insisted upon being paid in full, and announced his intention to remain in the office until he received all that was due him. He was ordered to leave, but refused to do so; whereupon he was forcibly ejected by some of the firm's employees, who threw him down the steps with such violence that he fell upon the sidewalk and broke his left leg, and after the injured limb had been set by Dr. MacGowan, was removed to the County Hospital.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

Guy Roberts, a Youth Residing at Boyle Heights, Was Arrested Last Night by Officer Romans upon a Warrant Issued by Justice Seaman.

The complaint, in response to which the warrant was issued, was sworn to by J. M. Witmer, cashier of the California Bank, late yesterday afternoon. It alleges that on January 21 last, young Roberts forged the signature of V. V. Jerome to a check for $25 with intent to defraud Thomas Haskell, one of the proprietors of the club-house in the rear of No. 120 East First street.

BEAUTY IS NO INHERITANCE.

Cosmetics Do Not Beautify, But Often Destroy a Healthy Complexion.

Kate Field has made the remarkable statement that the enormous sum of $62,000,000 is spent every year by American women for cosmetics, face powders, washes of all kinds, most of which are made of oxide of zinc, corrosive sublimate and other poisonous substances, which, instead of beautifying the complexion, destroy even healthy skin. A natural rosy healthy complexion can not be had by the use of these cosmetics, but only through the health of the body in general, and nothing is better to secure this result than the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel water, taken early in the morning.

This salt, which is produced by the City of Carlsbad by the evaporation of Carlsbad Sprudel water, is always effective in all disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys. For habitual constipation, gouty and rheumatic affections it is without equal. It clears the complexion and produces a healthy color. Be sure to obtain the genuine article which has the signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Co., Agents, N. Y.," on every bottle. Price, bottle, $1.00; large size, $1.50.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

A Large Attendance at the Gospel Tent Last Evening.

Evangelist Frank L. Smith of New York had an unusually large attendance last night for a Saturday night. The tent is a large one, seating comfortably one thousand persons, and the acoustic properties are so excellent that the words of the speaker and the singers are distinctly heard in every portion. The interest in the meetings is increasing, and yesterday the management added fifty more chairs in anticipation of a crowded meeting to-night.

During the song service preceding the address a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moffatt, W. H. Bell and Mrs. Bender sang a beautiful piece, following which Evangelist Frank L. Smith announced his text, "What Must I Do to Inherit Eternal Life."

LUKE 2: 25.

After the discourse quite a number of seekers arose for prayer, and the singers reported several conversions. The usual Sunday breakfast will be served to the hungry this morning at 7:30 o'clock in the tent, which is located on Second street, near San Pedro street. Special music is provided for tonight's meeting.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE

Almost Sunday Quiet at the City Hall.

Most of the City Officials Absent at San Diego.

Complaints About the "Blue Line" Street Cars.

Arrangement of the Roscoe Suspects in Department One for Train-Robbery—General Court News—New Suits Filed.

Almost Sunday quiet prevailed about the City Hall yesterday, the Mayor, a number of the Councilmen and other city officials having gone to San Diego. A few applicants for positions as teachers presented themselves at the office of Superintendent of Schools, expecting there would be a meeting of the Teachers' Committee of the school board. The attendance at the Public Library was small for Saturday.

The Courthouse was all but deserted yesterday, the departments being nearly all empty throughout the afternoon. The Clerk's office was visited by the usual delegation of attorneys, and Deputy Kutz issued several marriage licenses with his customary cheerfulness, however, notwithstanding the fact that it was an "off day." In Department One the arraignment of the Roscoe suspects attracted a crowd at the time of the opening of court, but the spectators rapidly faded away as soon as the interesting ceremony was over.

AT THE CITY HALL.

BLUE LINE CARS.

The Council Asked to Compel a Better Service.

A communication to the City Council, signed by John Crimmins and a number of others, sets forth at some length that what is known as the "Blue Line" street railway was constructed several years ago and was operated satisfactorily till about one year ago, since which time the service on the said line has been but one trip per day.

The said service is very unsatisfactory, and, in the belief of the petitioners, is given merely for the purpose of holding the franchise. It is, therefore, asked that the Council take such action in the matter as is proper under the circumstances.

Wants the Zanja Water.

Mrs. N. J. Ponce has filed a communication to the City Council, in which she states that for about fifteen years past she has owned the land bounded on the north by the property of Cross, on the south by Pico street, on the east by Alvarado street, and on the west by the city limits. The land has had appurtenant to it the waters flowing through the west branch of zanja 8 R. for irrigation purposes. The zanja has been closed within the past three months, and she asks that it be again opened or that she otherwise be supplied with water. She asks that this be done in order that she be not compelled to prosecute her claim against the city for damages, which the law allows her.

City Hall Notes.

The grading, gutting and curbing of Centennial street, between Bellevue avenue and Alpine street, has been accepted by the Street Superintendent, and an assessment warrant and diagram has been issued.

Thomas H. Hammond and others have filed a petition, asking that the grade be established on the alley in block C, of the Bonnie Brae tract, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Commissioners N. E. Davidson, Joseph Bayer and Charles Peteler have filed their report on the proposed widening of Third street, between Alameda street and the west line of the Bixelow tract. The total amount of benefit assessed is $469.75. Of this amount $469.18 is allowed as damages, and the remainder, $60.60, is for commissioners' and clerk's salaries, engineers' fees, advertising, recording of deeds, and other expenses. The district of assessment runs from Main street to Santa Fe avenue.

Property-owners have thirty days in which to protest against the confirmation of the report.

The Terminal Railway Company has filed a petition to the City Council, asking the abandonment as a public thoroughfare of that part of Myers street bounded on the west by lots Nos. 10, 11 and 12, of block No. 1, of the Clement tract, and on the east by lot No. 17 and other lots north of that in block H of the same tract. That portion of the street is stated to be bounded on three sides by the company's land, and of no utility for public purposes.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE COURTS.

Arraignment of the Roscoe Suspects in Department One.

The curiously-inclined came early to the Courthouse yesterday to catch a glimpse of the Roscoe train-robbery suspects, who were to appear for arraignment. Department One was filled with the morbid crowd by the time court convened, but the expected prisoners were not brought up until after the routine matters and petty criminals had been disposed of. Then the fellows filed in with four deputy sheriffs as guards and took their seats. In response to the call of the District Attorney they all answered to their names, Thomas, Fitzsimmons and Comstock designating H. H. Appel and R. A. Ling, Esq., as their counsel, and Schroeder or Shulters, Charles Woolner, Esq.

Attorney Woolner had prepared a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of his client, Schroeder, alleging as grounds the lack of the authority on the part of Judge Smith to make the order to hold the man here after he had been sentenced to imprisonment in Folsom. Judge Shaw, who is presiding in Judge Smith's absence, declined to make any order in the matter of the petition, merely directing that it be presented for Judge Smith's consideration upon the latter's return. The arraignment was then proceeded with and upon request of the attorneys set for Monday morning.

Court Notes.

Judgment has been entered for plaintiff in the case of Beery vs. Wand which was on trial yesterday in Department Five. A motion to set aside the substitution of parties plaintiff in the case of the California Bank vs. Los Angeles and Pacific Railway Company was denied by Judge Shaw yesterday. The court filed a brief opinion setting forth reasons for the making of the order. James Barnes, Edward Edmunds, Edward Troy, F. Brown and Tom Keefe entered their pleas to the respective charges of burglary and grand larceny yesterday in Department One.

Another amended information was filed against Wilson and Murphy, the employment fakirs, yesterday in the criminal department. Monday being set as a time for arraignment.

H. Carey has been appointed guardian of the Carey minors with bond fixed at $100. Judgment for defendant was awarded yesterday by Judge York in the case of the Security Loan and Trust Company vs. the Willamette Steam Mill and Lumber Company.

The latest applicant for a divorce is Theresa C. Riddell, who brings suit against C. G. Riddell.

New Suits.

Preliminary papers in the following new suits were filed with the County Clerk yesterday: First National Bank of San Diego vs. G. B. Simpson et al., on promissory note for $200.

Estate of Charlotte E. Lewis, a minor; petition of D. G. Lewis for letters of guardianship.

Estate of Nathaniel Hayden, deceased; petition of Helen E. Hayden for letters of administration.

Estate of Carey minors; petition of A. H. Carey for letters of guardianship.

EXTRAORDINARY ATTRACTIONS AT SAN DIEGO—DON'T MISS THEM.

The Spanish Fiesta is an event without a parallel in the experience of ninety-nine in a hundred of the residents of Southern California, and none can afford to miss the enjoyment of it.

It is announced that every feature of the whole fiesta will be "a scene from the ancient days," and an examination of the programme in detail confirms the statement.

The swarthy Spaniard, with glittering sombrero and galli-caparisoned steed, will be there to delight the audience with his feats of horsemanship.

Yuma Indians in native costume will show their speed in long-distance running races. Cocopahs will perform their weird war dances. Pueblos will illustrate the curious arts and customs of their hoary civilization, and manufacture as souvenirs of the occasion various articles of wearing apparel, pottery, ornaments, etc.

The picturesque cowboys have been "rounded up" from the isolated frontiers of the country, and will try conclusions with untamed broncos and wild cattle, illustrating a phase of Western life about which clings an aroma of adventure and romance.

For the bull fight, which is to take place on Monday, the most ferocious and savage bulls have been imported from the herds of Lower California, and it has leaked out that the affair is to be a "sure enough" fight, and many people who would esteem it a cruelty if domestic animals were employed are now anxious to witness the exciting and hazardous sport.

The Monterey, the United States coast defense vessel, is still in San Diego Bay and holding daily receptions to visitors, who are delighted with the opportunity for inspecting the wonderful mechanism and powerful guns of the great monitor. Altogether, the attractions at San Diego are of a high order.

The Southern California Railway Company is selling tickets to San Diego and return from all points on its lines at one fare for the round trip, and the opportunity afforded by these low rates for seeing the beautiful scenery on the "surt line," the grand ocean view from the beach, the old Capitranio Mission, visiting the charming resorts of the San Diego Bay region and the great coast defense vessel Monterey, and witnessing the old Spanish sports of the fiesta, all on one trip, is being very generally taken advantage of.

Low-rate tickets and full festa programmes can be obtained from any agent of the Southern California Railway.

THE CITY TEACHERS.

The Usual Weekly Meeting at the Spring-street School.

The city teachers met yesterday morning at the Spring-street building. As has heretofore been explained, the city has no single room of sufficient size to accommodate them, and so it is necessary for them to meet in sections.

A valuable paper on reading was read before sections Nos. 4 and 5, by Mrs. Albertina Smith. A paper on "Practical Drills" was read by T. A. Yorell and Edward Hutchinson, secretary of the County Educational Association, presented a paper on "Teaching." He gave a witty summing up of some of the absurd features connected with the subject. He urged the development of the child's mind and not the belief that life means nothing but a struggle for a bread-and-butter existence.

Miss Edith M. Joy spoke of the course of study in arithmetic.

Dr. S. H. Weller spoke before sections Nos. 2 and 3 on the memory in education. He expressed himself as not attaching much importance to the artificial methods of improving the memory. He believed rather in clear impressions and many repetitions as the surest means of developing the remembering power.

Mrs. Broadwell spoke on "Yellowstone Park." Her remarks were interesting and instructive, and she showed numerous geological and other specimens from that place. Miss Williams spoke of the lake district.

Mrs. Frick spoke before the kindergarten section. She urged the importance of thoroughly drilling the pupils while they are young in the use of good English, as when so drilled they will not be likely to forget it in later years.

PETTY OFFENDERS.

The Usual Run of Routine Business in the Police Court.

In the Police Court yesterday afternoon, Nicholas, a Jan, was arraigned by Justice Seaman upon the charge of battery, preferred against him by Blanche Donis, an Alameda-street court-tesan, and was ordered to appear for trial on Monday next, bail being required meanwhile in the sum of $20.

Frank Busch, the dope fiend, who created a mild sensation by relating a harrowing tale of cruel treatment to account for his having escaped from the chain gang, was given a twenty-day "float."

Dan Riley, a solitary drunk, was fined $2; but Harry Davis and J. J. Payne, a couple of young men who disturbed the peace by fighting on Friday last, were compelled to pay $10 and $5, respectively.

George Mason, a contractor, was arraigned upon the charge of having violated the city ordinance relating to the placing of lanterns on piles of building material when left on the street, but was released upon his own recognizance to appear for trial on Wednesday next.

Harry Oliver and Frank Dow appeared before Justice Seaman for examination upon the charge of grand larceny preferred against them by H. T. Gordon, the attorney, and were held to answer thereto under bonds in the sum of $2000.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Ward Meetings to Be Held During the Coming Week.

The Fifth Ward will make a determined effort to organize a ward conference, to co-operate with the Associated Charities, next Tuesday evening (April 24), at Plymouth Congregational Church, Twenty-third street, near 25th street, and it is earnestly desired that all interested in charity work should be present.

This is a large and prosperous ward, which is, no doubt, as willing as it is able to give a generous support to this good work. The labor of relieving the really distressed and worthy has but just begun, as it is only now that the greatest needs are coming to the surface, having been withheld until the last extremity was reached. Many of the cases are sad, indeed.

Monday evening, the 23d, the Fourth and Sixth wards will meet at the residence of Mrs. C. Ducommun, No. 1347 Grand avenue, for further work. The First Ward will also meet the same evening, at the residence of Mrs. King, South Daily street, East Los Angeles.

William Pridham, with other members of the association, will address the meetings of the Fourth and Fifth wards, and give an outline of the work.

WHERE IS PUR

—OR—

How to Get In and Ho..

What chance has a poor man to escape purgatory at all, if the price is to be paid in money?

Purgatory was not discovered until 1430—how about those who died before that?

Father Slattery will dress in public before his audience, in his "Priest's Vestments."

He is the only ex-priest in America today that wears them. It will be a rare treat for Protestants to see the "togery" and "sacred Vestments" of the Romish church.

Scapulars of all kinds, and beads will be exhibited, also the Romish Wafer God, large and small.

No speaker ever before in this city has ever drawn such crowds, and delighted audiences, as has ex-Priest Slattery. Remember, you can learn more in listening to his lectures than all the books you would read in a lifetime. All his lectures are different.

POSITIVELY HIS LAST LECTURE.

Admission, 25 and 50 cents. Ladies and gentlemen admitted to both lectures. To commence at 3. Doors open one hour before.

PASADENA.

A New School Building for the Northeast Section.

Bonds Will Be Voted—After the Great Floral Fete—People Coming and Going—Religious Notes and Briefs.

PASADENA, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) The meeting held at the Wilson school-building Saturday afternoon to consider the question of erecting a new schoolhouse in the city was attended by about fifty citizens. Calvin Hartwell, president of the Board of School Trustees called the meeting to order. Rev. Mr. Crawford was chosen as chairman, and Trustee F. B. Boynton acted as secretary.

The subject was discussed at some length in its various details, including the best place to locate the new building and the best way to raise funds for the same, whether by bonds or direct assessment. Among those who participated in the discussion were John McDonald, Ed Lockett, Robert Strong, J. A. Buchanan, C. C. Brown, James Clarke and others.

The outcome of it all was that the Trustees were authorized to purchase a site in the eastern or northern section of town and erect thereon a two-story eight-room school-building of modern design and conveniences. Four of the rooms will be completed in time for the opening of the fall term.

The purchase of a site for a school-building in the northwestern part of town was also authorized, as an estimate can be made of the cost of the site and proposed building, the Trustees will call an election to vote bonds to secure the necessary funds.

The Trustees were also authorized to sell the lands belonging to the district, which are at present unavailable for school purposes by reason of their location. The district owns three acres on the corner of Allen avenue and Colorado street, and a lot on Palmetto drive.

ECHOES OF THE PAGEANT.
The performance was universally conceded to be the most beautiful ever witnessed in Pasadena. Friday night's success was repeated at the matinee Saturday afternoon, the audience being almost as large as on the opening night.

A merited compliment was paid Mrs. Daggett Friday evening. She was called before the curtain and sang the first act, and greeted with tumultuous applause, and bouquets of flowers were showered upon her.

Unstinted praise is due Prof. Lowinski and the talented orchestra directed by him for the splendid rendition throughout the performance of appropriate music, much of which was written by him especially for the occasion.

The net profits of the two performances will amount to about $1000. One of the spectators was so pleased with the entertainment that he offered to contribute $5 additional to the proceeds.

A number of Los Angelesites witnessed the performance. The sword combat between C. W. Bell and R. T. Vandervort was excellently done, and was liberally applauded.

THE POMOLOGISTS ARE COMING.
The spring meeting of the Pomological Society of Southern California will be held in the Universalist Church vestry Thursday and Friday, May 3 and 4. The Reception Committee is composed of Rev. J. H. Brown, O. Clark, L. S. Porter, James Clarke and C. C. Thompson. Byron O. Clarke, Lyman Allen, Dr. Crandall, C. B. Hewitt and Mrs. C. B. Hewitt are also members of the committee on arrangements.

Among the Pasadenaans who will participate in the proceedings are C. E. Tebbetts, Queen Isabella, M. Tabor, and ex-Gov. L. A. Sheldon. The programme will embrace some papers of exceptional interest.

THE TEMPLE OF FAME.
Mrs. W. B. Clapp, Miss Peck, Miss Rankin, Miss Stout, and other well-known local singers, will take part in "The Temple of Fame," next Friday evening, at the Opera-house, and will sing selections appropriate to the character of the assumed names. There will also be a chorus of young ladies and a chorus of "Mother Goose" children and Brownies. The orchestra will be selected and directed by Prof. Lowinski and conducted at the performance by O. W. Kyle. The historical and other characters assumed will include Shakespeare, Columbus, Queen Isabella, George and Martha Washington, the Cary sisters, Jenny Lind, Benjamin Franklin, Ruth, Mrs. Partington and Ike, and many others.

SAN BERNARDINO.

"Living Whist" Given at the Pavilion.

One of the Best Entertainments Ever Seen in the City—"Joshua Whitcomb" by Amateurs at Redlands-Briefs and Personalities.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) For some time past the city has had posted in conspicuous places in flaming red letters the query, "What is Living Whist?" Those who were fortunate enough to be at the pavilion last evening—and they were many—saw the question answered. It was a game of whist, in which the pack of cards was represented by eight men and forty-four ladies. The four "hands" in the game were held by Mrs. Munson, James Boyd, Mrs. Perkins and A. H. Koebig and the game was won by Mr. Koebig and Mrs. Perkins. The "cards" had their hair powdered and wore fancy costumes, with the card represented upon their breasts. When a card was played it danced to its place in the middle of the room. The four deuces were represented by four little girls, who danced most beautifully, and were loudly applauded. Mrs. Dr. Dickey also did some excellent dancing of the dance of the deuces. The feature of the game, however, was the dancing of the knaves, represented by Messrs. O. P. Sloan, S. F. Zonbro, William Smith and D. W. Alverson. They were dressed in tight and wore skirts also, participating in a skit dance in the course of the game. The dancing of all gasoline stoves, especially fine and took the house by storm. The game occupied an hour and a half and was greatly enjoyed. After the game the dancing continued until 11 o'clock, when the receipts were $250, which the ladies of the Unity Club have used for.

SAN BERNARDINO BRIEFS.
James Young has resigned from the position of director in the San Antonio Water Company and Byron Ford has been elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Young has been East for several months.

Miss Smith Hall is visiting friends in Santa Barbara.

Miss Jones, daughter of Rev. Merlin Jones, formerly pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church in this city, is visiting San Bernardino, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Schermerhorn.

Harris Parks, deputy county clerk, is confined to his room because of illness.

The City Board of Health is taking precautionary steps to prevent the introduction of cholera in this year by the transcontinental railways. The board is in communication with the State Board of Health respecting the matter.

Prof. W. Scott Thomas addressed the Epworth League at its meeting last evening.

ONTARIO.

ONTARIO, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) An adjourned meeting of the directors of the San Antonio Water Company was held Thursday morning. After the transaction of some routine business a proposition was received from the Cucamonga Fruitland Company, on the sale of water stock. This was a disappointment, as an offer of water, not stock, was expected. The directors have been advised by their attorneys that they cannot sell the bonds of the company for stock in any other corporation. The Cucamonga proposition was, therefore, not considered.

The case was a surprise. A communication was received from Charles Frankish, manager of the Ontario Land Company, asking if the directors would consider a proposition to buy water, up to but not exceeding three hundred inches, delivered at Twenty-first street. The price named is $750 per inch, paying in bonds of the company, bearing interest at 6 per cent. No suggestion was made as to where the water is, and Mr. Frankish has declined to make any further explanation, even to the directors individually. An adjournment was taken for a few days, and the communication will then be considered.

Two or three months ago the proprietors of a Chinese washhouse, on C street, were tried for maintaining a nuisance, convicted and fined. They agreed to "get out," but they have not, and refused to leave. A second complaint was accordingly filed, and the case was tried before Justice Hardy, Thursday. E. H. Joblitt represented the county and Tonner & Fleming of Pomona, and J. S. Hall of Ontario, the defendants. Mr. Tonner had imbibed quite freely of artesian water before he left Pomona, and made things lively for the witnesses. The court rendered a decision Friday, discharging the defendants, on the ground that the complaint should have been brought in the Superior Court. The owner of the building has agreed to see that the Chinamen vacate.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stamm gave a dancing party at the A.O.U.W. Hall, Friday evening, that was one of the most pleasant events of the year.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) The presentation of "Joshua Whitcomb" at the Academy of Music last evening by amateurs of this city was so well done as to be a surprise to the friends of the participants. Kendall Holt trained the "home talent" for the play, and himself took the title role of Joshua Whitcomb, an old-fashioned Democrat, in which character he "brought down the house" upon several occasions. The delineation of the young English duke was cleverly done by W. W. Grain as Fred Dolby, and A. G. Jackson's Cy Prince was very good. Miss Blackburn made a good Aunt Thedy, though the character was somewhat forced by her permitting a slip in her voice upon two or three occasions. "The Hubbard Whistles and Borrowers" was well sustained by young Frank. The others scarcely equaled these, though there was little crudity shown by any. The Anvil Quartette of Los Angeles sang several selections, which were well received.

The conception and execution of the tableau, "The Fire-bell," was excellent.

The entertainment was for the benefit of the fund to purchase a fire-bell for the city fire department, and, as a result, the treasury will be enriched to the extent of about $100.

REDLANDS BRIEFS.
Mrs. A. E. Lott entertained the Anvil Quartette from Los Angeles, which took such a prominent part in the entertainment last night.

M. F. and Nabum Williams of Winnebago, Ill., are in the city for an extended visit, guests of A. W. King, an old-time friend.

THE EAST SIDE.

Odd Fellows to Attend Divine Service To-day.—E. N. Hamilton's residence on Le-couvreur and Maffett streets, was the scene of a happy gathering last evening, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the ex-Councilman and his wife. There was a goodly number of friends in attendance, and some very nice presents were received.

The Workman-street sewer has been laid as far as the junction of Pasadena avenue, and it is likely that the contractor will be ready to begin on Downey avenue within a few days.

It was reported yesterday that work had been commenced upon the Electric Company's extended line to Pasadena. A visit to the scene of supposed operations revealed the fact that no materials had yet been brought on the ground, though Sherman Smith is authorized for the statement that hauling will begin on Monday and work on the track be started during the week.

Edward Fabian, the clockmaker and basso, is announced to appear at the Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

In accordance with the long-established custom of the local branches of the order, the I.O.O.F. of East Los Angeles will attend divine services this morning at the Baptist Church, where Rev. George E. Dye will deliver the annual discourse. The organizations participating will be the East Side Lodge, No. 325; Magnolia Encampment, No. 88, and Eureka Rebecca Degree Lodge, No. 128. This order is now exceedingly strong on the East Side, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance of the members this morning.

ORANGE COUNTY.

A Stringent Saloon Ordinance Passed by the Supervisors.

All Saloons Must Be Removed in Fifteen Days—Closing Sessions of the Board of Supervisors—General News.

SANTA ANA, April 21.—(Special Correspondence.) In fifteen more days the saloons of Orange county will be obliged to take the screens down from their windows and away from their doors and to remove all tables, chairs and gaming-rooms from the interior of the saloons.

The Board of Supervisors met in special session today and passed the ordinance upon this question of saloons, mention of which was made in The Times a week or more ago. The ordinance is to take effect within fifteen days after its passage and, as it was passed today, the rum shops must make the change as provided in the ordinance by May 6, 1894.

The ordinance further provides that the saloon of saloons must be on a street, be on the ground floor, but not in a basement; such room must not contain any card, billiard or pool tables and to remove all tables, chairs and gaming-rooms from the interior of the saloons.

The ordinance making it somewhat inconvenient, if not ridiculous, for the average bicyclist to proceed on his silent steed as of yore, with any particular degree of satisfaction or comfort. The ordinance ordains that riders on "bikes" must always pass to the right when meeting teams in the road and must turn out, at least 100 feet before the team, and the riders must provide their wheels with bells to use during the day which shall be rung three times when approaching a team, and they also must supply their wheels with lanterns if used at night.

Aggressive Policy of China.

The Times, Hongkong, India, says that the Viceroy of Yunnan has issued a proclamation declaring that Upper Burma, as far as the Kachin hills, belongs to the Chinese Empire. These hills form a valuable scientific frontier, where a few troops could successfully oppose an advancing army. The anxiety of England to retain possession of that part of the world has most likely been so much overdone that the Celestials have been thoroughly aroused. China has taken the initiative in the responsibility of making a decisive move in a political game into which she has been inveigled by Russia and France. Further claims to territory are put forward, and the Chinese Ambassador is said to be in direct communication with Lord Rosebery on this matter.

In short, Prof. Klehm has invented a fog ball which has been tested and produces a fog before which that of London may hide its diminished head. Prof. Klehm fills his balls with a mixture of acids, which, when combined with certain other acids, which, on bursting produces by chemical means a dense fog, and this fog, which he endows with the power of suffocating, enshrouds the enemy a sufficient length of time to make him lose his bearings and the power of aiming his weapons. My audience! what a revolution there will be in modern warfare if the fog ball is adopted! But no doubt we shall see the use of this ball in the use of a sun ball or a wind ball capable of neutralizing the effects of the fog ball. And so on, ad infinitum.

THE TAKIN' IN OF OLD MRS. LANE.

A $500 PRIZE STORY.

BY ELLA HIGGINSON,
New Whomcom, Washington State.

(The following story, which is one of about a thousand submitted in the recent McClure prize-story contest (mentioned in these columns some months ago), was awarded the highest of the five prizes offered, $500.)

"Huh! Huh! Pleg take that muley cow! Huh!"

"What she doin' maw?"

"Why, she's a-holdin' her head over the barn an' a-bawlin'. Tryin' to get into the little corral where her calf is. I wish paw'd done 'a' I told him and put her into the meadow. 'P there's anything on earth I abominate it's to hear a cow a-bawlin'."

"Mrs. Bridges gathered several sticks of stove-wood from the box behind the stove, and, going out into the yard, threw them with a powerful movement of the bare arm in the direction of the barn. The cow lowered her hornless head and shook it defiantly at her, but held her ground. Isaphene stood in the open door, laughing. She was making a cake and beating the mixture with a long-handled tin spoon as she watched the fruitless attack. She had reddish brown hair before long, on her forehead, and temples in waves so deep you could have lost your finger in any one of them; and good, honest, gray eyes, and a mouth that was worth kissing. She wore a blue cotton gown that looked as if it had just left the ironing-table. Her sleeves were rolled to her elbows.

"It don't do any good, maw," she said as her mother returned with a defeated air; "she just bawls and shakes her head right 'n your face. Look at her!"

"Oh, I don't want to look at her. It seems to me your paw might 'a' drove her out to the meadow when he was goin' right by there. It ain't like as if he'd go out of his way. It aggravates me awful."

She threw the last stick of wood into the box and brushed the tiny splinters off her arm and sleeve.

"Well, I guess I might 'a' well string them beans for dinner before I clean up."

She took a large milk pan full of beans from the table and sat down by the window.

"Isaphene," she said, presently, "what do you say to an organ an' a horse an' buggy—a horse with some style about it that you could ride or drive, an' that 'd always be up when you wanted to go to town?"

"What do I say?" The girl turned and looked at her mother as if she feared one of them had lost her senses; then she returned to the kitchen, looking with an air of good-natured disdain.

"Oh, you can smile an' turn your head on one side, but you'll whistle another tune before long, an' I'll make my guess. Isaphene, I've been savin' up chicken and butter money ever since we come to Puget Sound; then I've always got the money for the straw-berry crop, an' for the geese an' turkeys, an' the calves, an' so on. Your paw's been real good about such things."

"I don't call it 'bein' good,'" said Isaphene. "Why shouldn't he let you have the money? You planted, an' weeded, an' picked the strawberries; an' you fed the chickens, an' gathered the eggs; an' you have all the tendin' of the geese an' turkeys an' calves; to say nothin' of the cows bawlin' over the barn," she added, with a sigh. "I'd say you'd only had your rights when you get the money for such things."

"Oh, yes, that's fine talk," Mrs. Bridges nodded her head with an air of experience. "But it ain't all men-folks that gives you your rights; an' when one does, I say he deserves credit."

"Well, I wouldn't claim anybody'd been good to me just because I give him what I'd earned. I've been good. Now, if he'd give you all the money from the potato patch every year, or the meadow, or anything, that he'd done all the workin'—I'd call that good of him. But he never done anything like that—did he, maw?"

"No, he never did," replied Mrs. Bridges, testily. "An' what's more, he ain't likely to—nor any other man I know. 'F you get a man that gives you what you work for, you earn you'll be lucky—with all your airs."

"Well, I guess I'll manage to get my rights, somehow," said Isaphene, beginning to bustle about the house. "Somebody's comin'," exclaimed her mother, lowering her voice to a mysterious whisper.

"Who is it?" Isaphene stood up straight, with that little quick beating of mingled pleasure and dismay that the cry of company brings to country hearts.

"I can't see. I can see it's a woman, though; she's just passin' the row of chrysanthemums. Can't you stoop down an' peep? She won't see you 'way over there by the table."

Isaphene stooped and peered cautiously through the wild cucumber vines that climbed over the kitchen window.

"Oh, it's Miss Hanna!"

"My goodness! An' the way this house looks! You'll have to bring her out here in the kitchen, too. I s'pose she's come to spend the day—she's got her bag, ain't she?"

"Yes. What'll we have for dinner? I ain't goin' to eat this cake for her. I want this for Sunday."

"Why, we've got corn beef to boil, an' a head of cabbage; an' these here beans; an' there's potatoes; an' water-melon preserves. An' you can make a custard pie. I guess that'll be good."

"Somebody's comin'," exclaimed her mother, lowering her voice to a mysterious whisper.

drummed with the lightest of touches on Mrs. Bridges' temple. It brought all the sweets of the old-fashioned flower garden with it—the mingled breaths of mignonette, stock, sweet lavender, sweet peas and clove pinks. The whole kitchen was filled with the fragrance. And what a big, cheerful kitchen it was. Mrs. Bridges contrasted it unconsciously with the poor-farm kitchen, and almost shivered, warm though the day was.

"What's her children about?" she asked sharply.

"Oh, her children," said Mrs. Hanna, with a contemptuous air. "What does her children amount to, I'd like to know?"

"Her son's got a good, comfortable house an' farm."

"Well, what is he? He got it with his wife, didn't he? An' Missy won't let his poor, old mother set foot inside the house. I don't say as she is a pleasant body to have about—she's cross an' sick most all the time, an' childish. But that ain't sayin' her children oughtn't to put up with her disagreeableness."

"She's got a married daughter, ain't she?"

"Yes, she's got a married daughter," Mrs. Hanna closed her lips tightly together and looked as if she were saying something if she chose, that would create a sensation.

"Well, ain't she got a good enough home to keep her mother in?"

"Yes, she has. But she got her home along with her husband—an' he won't have the old soul any more'n Missy would."

"There's another silence. Isaphene had put the cake in the oven. She knelt on the floor and opened the door very softly now and then, to see that it was not browning too fast. The heat from the oven had crimsoned her face and arms.

"Guess you'd best put a piece of paper over that cake," said Mrs. Hanna. "It smells kind of 'burny like.'"

"It's all right, maw."

Mrs. Bridges looked out the window. "Ain't my powers doin' well, though, Miss Hanna?"

"They are that. When I come up the walk I couldn't help thinkin' of poor, old Miss Lane."

"What's that got to do with her?" Mrs. Bridges' tone and glance.

"She's a crocheting, but held her hands stationary in the air, and looked over them in surprise at her questioner."

"Well, she ust to live here, you know."

"She did. In this house?"

"Why, yes. Didn't you know that? Oh, they say he's right well, 'n her husband's time. I visited her considerable. My! the good things she all ways had to eat! It makes my mouth water to think of it."

"Huh! I'm sorry can't give you as good as she did," said Mrs. Bridges, stiffly.

"As if you didn't! You set a beautiful table, Miss Bridges, an' what more, that's your reputation all over. Everybody says that about you."

Mrs. Bridges smiled, deprecatingly, with faint blush of pleasure.

"They do, Miss Bridges. I just told you about Miss Lane because you'd never think it now of the poor old creature. An' such flowers as she ust to have on both sides that walk! Larkspurs, an' sweet Williams, an' bachelor buttons, an' pinks, an' anemones, an' all kinds. Guess you didn't know she set out that pink cabbage-rose at the north end of the front porch, did you? An' that hop vine that she trained over the parlor window? Set that out, too. An' that row of young alders between here an' the barn—she set them all out with her own hands, an' she never lived here."

"Yes, it is," said Mrs. Bridges, slowly and thoughtfully.

"It's a wonder she never broke down an' cried when she was visitin' here. She can't mention the place without cryin'."

A dull red came into Mrs. Bridges' face.

"She never visited here."

"No, she didn't. Mrs. Hanna laid her crocheting and her hands in her lap and stared. "Why, she visited everywhere. That's the way she managed to keep out of the poorhouse so long. Everybody was real considerate about invitin' her. But I expect she didn't like to come here because she thought 'nuch of the place."

Isaphene looked over her shoulder at her mother, but the look was not returned. The beans were sputtering nervously in the pot.

"Ain't you got about enough, maw?" she said. "That pan seems to be getting hefty."

"Yes, I guess," she got up, brushing the strings off her apron, and set the pan on the table. "I'll watch the cake, now, Isaphene. You put the beans on in the pot to boil. Put a little salt in the water."

Better get 'em on right away. It's pret' near 11. Ain't this oven too hot with the door shut?"

Isaphene made preparations for dinner went on. The beans soon began to boil, and an appetizing odor floated through the kitchen. Then the potatoes were pared—big, white fellows, smooth and long, with a sharp, thin knife, round and round and round each, without a break, until the whole earing had curled itself about. Isaphene's pretty arm to the elbow. The cabbage was chopped finely for the cold slaw, and the vinegar and the butter stirred in the saucepan to heat. Then Mrs. Bridges began to set the table, covering it first with a red cloth having a white border and fringe. In the middle of the table she placed an uncommonly large, six-bottled canteen.

"I guess you'll excuse a red table cloth, Miss Hanna. The men folks get their shirt sleeves so dirty out in the fields that you can't keep a white one clean no time."

"I use red ones myself most the time," replied Mrs. Hanna, crocheting industriously. "I guess you'd better see the old place after all these years; they'll take her right past here to the poor farm."

Mrs. Bridges set on the table a white plate holding a big square of yellow butter, and stood looking through the open door, down the path, with its tall hollyhocks and scarlet poppies on either side. Between the house and the barn some wild mustard had grown, thick and tall, and was now drifting, like a golden cloud, against the pale blue sky. Butterflies were thronging through the air, and grasshoppers were crackling everywhere. It was all very pleasant and peaceful; while the comfortable house and barns, the wide fields stretching away to the forest, and the cattle feeding on the hillside gave a look of prosperity. Mrs. Bridges wondered how she would feel—after having lived the place—riding by to the poor farm. Then she pulled herself together and said, "Well, I'll be glad to see her."

"Well, I think her children ought to be made to take care of her," Mrs. Bridges went on setting the table with brisk, angry movements. "That's what I think about it. The law ought to take hold of it."

"Well, you see the law has took hold of it," said Mrs. Hanna, with grim smile. "It seems a shame that there ain't nobody 'n the neighborhood that 'd take her in. She ain't no trouble. She's sick, in an 'out o' bed, nigh onto all the time. My opinion is she's been sored by all her troubles; an' that if somebody 'd only take her an' be kind to her, her temper 'd be cured. 'Ud she be grateful for every little chore you do her. It just makes my heart ache to think of her goin' to the poor farm."

Mrs. Bridges shut her lips tightly together; all the softness and irresolution went out of her face.

"What's her children about?" she asked sharply.

"Oh, her children," said Mrs. Hanna, with a contemptuous air. "What does her children amount to, I'd like to know?"

"Her son's got a good, comfortable house an' farm."

"Well, what is he? He got it with his wife, didn't he? An' Missy won't let his poor, old mother set foot inside the house. I don't say as she is a pleasant body to have about—she's cross an' sick most all the time, an' childish. But that ain't sayin' her children oughtn't to put up with her disagreeableness."

"She's got a married daughter, ain't she?"

"Yes, she's got a married daughter," Mrs. Hanna closed her lips tightly together and looked as if she were saying something if she chose, that would create a sensation.

"Well, ain't she got a good enough home to keep her mother in?"

"Yes, she has. But she got her home along with her husband—an' he won't have the old soul any more'n Missy would."

"There's another silence. Isaphene had put the cake in the oven. She knelt on the floor and opened the door very softly now and then, to see that it was not browning too fast. The heat from the oven had crimsoned her face and arms.

"Guess you'd best put a piece of paper over that cake," said Mrs. Hanna. "It smells kind of 'burny like.'"

"It's all right, maw."

Mrs. Bridges looked out the window. "Ain't my powers doin' well, though, Miss Hanna?"

"They are that. When I come up the walk I couldn't help thinkin' of poor, old Miss Lane."

"What's that got to do with her?" Mrs. Bridges' tone and glance.

"She's a crocheting, but held her hands stationary in the air, and looked over them in surprise at her questioner."

"Well, she ust to live here, you know."

"She did. In this house?"

"Why, yes. Didn't you know that? Oh, they say he's right well, 'n her husband's time. I visited her considerable. My! the good things she all ways had to eat! It makes my mouth water to think of it."

"Huh! I'm sorry can't give you as good as she did," said Mrs. Bridges, stiffly.

"As if you didn't! You set a beautiful table, Miss Bridges, an' what more, that's your reputation all over. Everybody says that about you."

Mrs. Bridges smiled, deprecatingly, with faint blush of pleasure.

"They do, Miss Bridges. I just told you about Miss Lane because you'd never think it now of the poor old creature. An' such flowers as she ust to have on both sides that walk! Larkspurs, an' sweet Williams, an' bachelor buttons, an' pinks, an' anemones, an' all kinds. Guess you didn't know she set out that pink cabbage-rose at the north end of the front porch, did you? An' that hop vine that she trained over the parlor window? Set that out, too. An' that row of young alders between here an' the barn—she set them all out with her own hands, an' she never lived here."

"Yes, it is," said Mrs. Bridges, slowly and thoughtfully.

"It's a wonder she never broke down an' cried when she was visitin' here. She can't mention the place without cryin'."

A dull red came into Mrs. Bridges' face.

"She never visited here."

"No, she didn't. Mrs. Hanna laid her crocheting and her hands in her lap and stared. "Why, she visited everywhere. That's the way she managed to keep out of the poorhouse so long. Everybody was real considerate about invitin' her. But I expect she didn't like to come here because she thought 'nuch of the place."

Isaphene looked over her shoulder at her mother, but the look was not returned. The beans were sputtering nervously in the pot.

"Ain't you got about enough, maw?" she said. "That pan seems to be getting hefty."

"Yes, I guess," she got up, brushing the strings off her apron, and set the pan on the table. "I'll watch the cake, now, Isaphene. You put the beans on in the pot to boil. Put a little salt in the water."

Better get 'em on right away. It's pret' near 11. Ain't this oven too hot with the door shut?"

Isaphene made preparations for dinner went on. The beans soon began to boil, and an appetizing odor floated through the kitchen. Then the potatoes were pared—big, white fellows, smooth and long, with a sharp, thin knife, round and round and round each, without a break, until the whole earing had curled itself about. Isaphene's pretty arm to the elbow. The cabbage was chopped finely for the cold slaw, and the vinegar and the butter stirred in the saucepan to heat. Then Mrs. Bridges began to set the table, covering it first with a red cloth having a white border and fringe. In the middle of the table she placed an uncommonly large, six-bottled canteen.

"I guess you'll excuse a red table cloth, Miss Hanna. The men folks get their shirt sleeves so dirty out in the fields that you can't keep a white one clean no time."

"I use red ones myself most the time," replied Mrs. Hanna, crocheting industriously. "I guess you'd better see the old place after all these years; they'll take her right past here to the poor farm."

Mrs. Bridges set on the table a white plate holding a big square of yellow butter, and stood looking through the open door, down the path, with its tall hollyhocks and scarlet poppies on either side. Between the house and the barn some wild mustard had grown, thick and tall, and was now drifting, like a golden cloud, against the pale blue sky. Butterflies were thronging through the air, and grasshoppers were crackling everywhere. It was all very pleasant and peaceful; while the comfortable house and barns, the wide fields stretching away to the forest, and the cattle feeding on the hillside gave a look of prosperity. Mrs. Bridges wondered how she would feel—after having lived the place—riding by to the poor farm. Then she pulled herself together and said, "Well, I'll be glad to see her."

"Well, I think her children ought to be made to take care of her," Mrs. Bridges went on setting the table with brisk, angry movements. "That's what I think about it. The law ought to take hold of it."

"Well, you see the law has took hold of it," said Mrs. Hanna, with grim smile. "It seems a shame that there ain't nobody 'n the neighborhood that 'd take her in. She ain't no trouble. She's sick, in an 'out o' bed, nigh onto all the time. My opinion is she's been sored by all her troubles; an' that if somebody 'd only take her an' be kind to her, her temper 'd be cured. 'Ud she be grateful for every little chore you do her. It just makes my heart ache to think of her goin' to the poor farm."

Mrs. Bridges shut her lips tightly together; all the softness and irresolution went out of her face.

"What's her children about?" she asked sharply.

"Oh, her children," said Mrs. Hanna, with a contemptuous air. "What does her children amount to, I'd like to know?"

"Her son's got a good, comfortable house an' farm."

lots of children, or their own folks to take care of."

"Huh!" said Mrs. Bridges. "She began chopping some cold boiled beef for hash to eat with the children."

"I don't believe I'll sleep tonight for thinkin' about it," she said after awhile. "I won't neither, maw. I wish she wasn't goin' right by here."

"So do I."

After a long silence Mrs. Bridges said: "I don't s'pose your paw'd hear to our takin' her in?"

"I guess he'd hear to it if we would," said Isaphene, dryly.

"Well, we can't do it—that's all there is about it," announced Mrs. Bridges, with a great air of having made up her mind. Isaphene did not reply. She was slicing potatoes to fry, and she seemed to agree silently with her mother's decision. Presently, however, Mrs. Bridges said, in a less determined tone: "There's no place to put her excepting the spare room—an' we can't set a poor old creature in there."

"No," said Isaphene, in a non-committal tone.

Mrs. Bridges stopped chopping and found a brushful out of the door.

"There's this room open'n up on the kitchen," she said, slowly. "It's a nice and big and sunny. It 'd be handy for a sick body, an' a right off the kitchen. But it ain't furnished."

"No," said Isaphene; "it ain't."

"An' I know your paw wouldn't furnish it."

Isaphene laughed. "No, I guess not," she said.

"Well, there's no use a-thinkin' about it, Isaphene; we just can't take her. Better get them out of the house. I s'pose the men folks comin' up to the barn."

The next morning after breakfast Isaphene said suddenly, as she stood waiting for her mother to get ready, "You better take the organ money an' furnish up that room."

Mrs. Bridges turned so sharply she dropped the turkey-knife with which she was polishing off the stove.

"You don't never mean it," she gasped.

"Yes, I do. I know we'd both feel better to take her in than to take in an organ." They both laughed rather foolishly at the poor joke. You can furnish with a horse and buggy, too. I won't never open that money for nothin' but an organ—so you can just shut up about it."

"I guess a horse an' buggy worse, maw. We can get a horse that I can ride, too. An' we'll get a phaeton, so's we can take Miss Lane to church an' round to the neighbors."

Mrs. Bridges, bluntness, said nothing. "I won't never open that money for nothin' but an organ—so you can just shut up about it."

J. T. SHEWARD,

113-115 N. SPRING ST.

We claim to be the only dry goods house in Los Angeles that has increased its force of salespeople this season. The only dry goods house in the city that closes Saturday nights. During the panic we did not cut the salary of a single employee. We prefer paying good salaries for good help. Good help means good treatment, careful study; honest, upright people, increased business. The writer of this never does anything solely for popularity. It must have merit and respectability before it is indorsed. The trouble with one-half the politicians is they truckle for disreputable support and neglect the strong aid of the best classes. They lose prestige and standing by so doing. This house has been put on the black list for advertising in The Times, by a few fellows who are trying to run the town. As long as it suits our convenience to advertise in The Times, we shall do so. We pay for it, and believe it is doing good. We are willing to pay these fellows at the rate of $10 a month if they will black-list us with no others on the sheet and give it a good circulation. So many being on the black-list it sort of detracts. We don't believe it helps us as much as it would if we were black-listed all alone. However, we are in good company—the best in town, perhaps it's just as well. Our numbers are still 113 and 115 North Spring St. We sell Dry Goods, Millinery, Cloaks, Suits. Close Saturday nights, advertise in The Times, work for public enterprises, and don't care a continental for all the black-lists in America. Boys, you're to youthful to have much influence; to green to keep.

You will notice along

THE DRESS GOOD COUNTER FROM THE door to the end of the store that we have been doubling up salesmen. This has become necessary from the large increase of trade. Our Dress Goods department is one of the busy spots in this big store. It was predicted that when we cut off all discounts our trade would suffer. On the contrary, it has shown constant gains. It was predicted when we announced Saturday night's closing, the business would suffer and the early closing would be of short duration. Two years of steady growth has shown the wisdom of Saturday night's closing. The dress goods trade is the best for a number of seasons. All-wool Dress Goods for 50c a yard—equal to dollar imported goods. Swivel Silks, 27 inches wide, 75c a yard. A washable Silk suitable for waists and dresses. A new lot of Creams and Corn Colors. They are beauties. India Silks, 50c, 75c; Silk Pongees, 25c, 35c, 50c, 60c, 75c; Natural Pongee Silk Embroideries to match; Plain Henriettas, 50c and 75c; Whip Cords, Serges, Diagonals, 50c, 75c, $1.00, in all colors, including blacks. We believe that our dress goods department has more new goods on sale than any other dress goods department in the city. Old goods we do not advertise. Each season we clear the decks of unsaleable goods. Nothing but the newest and best at a reasonable price.

It don't pay to buy

TRASH. IT DON'T PAY TO ECONOMIZE BY buying out-of-style goods. The best costs but a trifle more. You secure comfort and peace of mind by having goods that look as well as the average. Ladies Shirt Waists are stylish this season. Nearly every lady will have from one to six by July 1st. A good stylish Shirt Waist can be bought as low as 50c. It don't pay to buy anything cheaper. They are to be had if you want them. Better do without rather than buy a flimsy article that has no size or style about it. We can furnish better ones for 75c, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00. We have none of last year's goods on hand. The waists we sell are made by experienced Shirt Waist makers. They have carefully selected good styles and have not sacrificed the size or work for gain. Fully 2,000 Waists to select from. Certainly you can be suited. One price to all. Plain figures. Good treatment.

A few years ago a

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR DEPARTMENT WAS a rare sight in a dry goods store. Now it is a rare sight to see a dry goods store without a Muslin Underwear Department. Our Muslin Underwear is better than you can make it for the prices we ask; made by Underwear experts, cutting hundreds of garments at one lick; buying all the materials in the largest quantities, and selling it to you with a small margin of profit only. How can you afford to work over a little lot you want to buy? When you make it the style and finish is not there, and all your work and patience has been in vain. We have the largest assortment of medium-priced Underwear in the city, selling at the right figures and doing three times as much business as we did a year ago. Drawers, 25c to $2; Skirts, 75c to $2; Nightgowns, 75c to $3.50. We advertise the most reliable qualities, and stick to the text, when it comes to good treatment.

Wide Black Moire Sash Ribbons,

BUTTER COLOR POINT DE VENISE LACE, Butter Color Point de Venise Insertions, Ladies' Chemisettes with Cuffs to match, Ladies' Shirt Waists, laundered with stiff Collars and Cuffs. Carriage Shades and Sun Umbrellas, Navy Blue and Black Parasols, Black Silk Mitts and Gloves, 2500 pieces New Wash Dress Goods in stock. Outing Flannels in all grades, Swivel Silks, 27 inches wide, 75c; All-wool and Part Cotton Challies; Millinery, trimmed and untrimmed; Ladies', Misses' and Children's Sailors, Mull Hats and Sun Bonnets; Ladies' Capes and Jackets. The big trade is centering along the line of these popular sellers. Each and every department shows new goods of the popular priced kind. Nothing trashy, nothing high priced. The large majority buy medium priced goods. You should visit the large store where nothing but new goods are shown.

A smooth, round, even

CORDED, PRINTED WASH DRESS GOODS, all the appearance of a silk, 32 inches wide, 20c a yard. Everybody who sees them buys them at once. They have the appearance as well as the wear to recommend them to public favor. One of the best sellers in the new line of Wash Dress Goods; strongly recommended for good wear.

Half-wool Challies,

LIGHT AND DARK GROUND, IN NEW STYLES, 20c and 25c. We show a cheap line of Challies for 6c, 8c, 10c and 12c a yard. Full width, Half-wool Challies, equal in every way in style to All-wool Challies, 35c a yard. You cannot distinguish them from all-wool.

Everybody is of

ONE OPINION ABOUT THE FIESTA. IT was an unqualified success in every particular. The Executive Committee of the Merchants' Association did not expend one penny for carriage hire for their own use. They either walked, rode in the cars or furnished their own private carriages for their own use. The Finance Committee watched the expenses in detail the same as they watch the expenses in their own business. The entire decorations of the streets did not cost to exceed three hundred and fifty dollars, after deducting the banners that were sold. In addition to this the committee furnished free of charge, material for over 7000 school badges, banners for all the schools, banners for all the fire companies and banners for the city parks. They furnished decorations for the interior of the Los Angeles Theater, over 100 yards of material for the grand ball, 48,000 feet of rope decorations were put upon the streets, and nearly 10,000 banners. In addition to this 473 banners were loaned to the Midwinter Fair at San Francisco to decorate the Southern California Building. All the street decorations were taken down and loaned to the Coronado Beach Company at San Diego for their Fiesta. The material loaned to the Midwinter Fair and Coronado Beach Company will be returned to the committee free of charge. The Santa Fe Railroad Company kindly donated the freight on the material from Chicago, the Los Angeles Transfer Company donated the hauling, the Park Commissioners, Fire Department, Street Railways and Street Commissioner donated help and teams to put up and take down the decorations. The ladies of the Grand Army helped prepare the decorations. This enabled the Street Decorating Committee to put upon the street more than ten times the decorations than were ever used before, at a cost not to exceed three hundred and fifty dollars. The Merchants' Association was not organized for personal gain. They had but the one object in view, and that was to give an entertainment of the highest order which would reflect credit upon their efforts and be an advertisement for Los Angeles that would be far-reaching. The poorest beggar on the streets had the same opportunity to enjoy the festivities as a millionaire. Everything was out loose for personal enjoyment of the highest order. Mr. Jevne, Mr. T. A. Gardner and Mr. Sheward are the members of the Finance Committee, and all bills that have been audited shows the greatest care in the expenditures on the part of each committee. The policy has been to show how large a carnival could be given for the smallest amount of money. Already the Merchants' Association has started in for next year's Fiesta. It will take at least two months to map out and apportion the committees and put them on a working basis. Next year's La Fiesta will far exceed anything of the kind ever attempted in America. It will be managed solely by the Merchants' Association, and under the same director general. The citizens of Los Angeles have intrusted the matter to the Merchants' Association for their first Fiesta. They can afford to lend the committee every assistance in their power to make the second Fiesta an overwhelming success. If you have friends in the East invite them to come to our next Fiesta. This is everybody's Fiesta, managed by the Merchants' Association. The money you contribute will be expended judiciously. There are none in the association who want an office, and they have no axes to grind. Let everybody unite to make the Fiesta for 1895 the greatest carnival ever held in America.

We will cut, fit and baste

CAPE FREE FOR ALL WHO BUY THEIR material here. In this way you can buy a Cape for very much less money than a ready-made Cape will cost. We have sold over 2000 Capes the past year, and have not had a complaint or a misfit. If you need a ready-made garment, we show over 2000 Capes of different kinds, from $4 upwards. Our Cloak Department is conducted upon legitimate business principles; one price to all, plain figures, good treatment. Whether you are a buyer or a looker, we show goods freely, and make no fuss over a garment returned. We refund the money without a word. We show a small lot of all-wool Jackets in good styles, from $1 up to $3.50, a little lot of odds and ends, to close out quickly. They are worth looking at. Ladies' Shirt Waists in the largest assortment; none but this season's goods to show you.

We recommend

PENANGS AND CAMBRICS FOR SHIRT Waists. We recommend them for wear and for fast colors. They are recommended for the reason that no other goods launders better. They are recommended or their extreme low price, when you consider their wear, 12c, 15c, 16c. We recommend linen-finished Cheviots dyed with pure indigo. Neither sun nor water will change the colors; 15c a yard is very cheap. They are splendid for shirt waists, children's wear, and fully as good for outing suits. The Wash Dress Goods Department is fully three times as large as ever before.

We have endeavored to

STATE FACTS WITHOUT EXAGGERATION in all our advertising. We leave misleading statements out; we believe that good merchandising is to sell good goods at a reasonable profit, and treat the public well. For the past two years we have had cheap corset talk, and cheap corset windows staring us in the face from all directions. These cheap corsets were sold, no doubt, and were worn by the ladies who bought them. What impression did it leave, and where is the merchant's corset department who sold the cheap corset? In order to hold a semblance of trade this cheap corset-selling must be done weekly, and then a good class of trade is never drawn to their doors. Straining for business; straining to hold business after securing it is the history of every house who has tried it. The best merchants in America are bright men who believe that the best goods sold at a reasonable profit is the best thing to build a business up and retain it. We are selling Royal Worcester Corsets. We carry no other brand; for several years we floundered about with a little of everything, and not much of anything, and did a moderately fair corset trade. Ladies came to our Corset Department as mechanically as a horse goes to water; the ladies knew we carried corsets, and the horse knew there should be water in the trough. Neither the horse nor the lady knew anything about what the quality was to be when they got there; they took their chances. Since selling none but Royal Worcester Corset we have built up a good reputation, and ladies know now where they can get the best corset for a reasonable amount of money, and they know the kind to expect. Some think it poor policy to say to the public, we carry none but Royal Worcester Corsets. If the lady wanted some other brand she would not come here for it. Our answer is: We have more than doubled our corset trade since we began to advertise none but Royal Worcester Corsets. Houses that have carried everything and advertised everything are never heard of in competition. That is history in Los Angeles; it is not possible for any other manufacturer to make good corsets any cheaper than the Royal Worcester. They are large manufacturers and have got their work down to a science; if any one else sells a corset cheaper than a Royal Worcester it either lacks quality or fit; it takes both to make a good quality; the Royal Worcester possesses both; the price ranges from $1 up to $6.50. We have a cheaper corset at a cheaper price, 50c; we don't like to sell them; it is the best 50c corset on the market, and that is not saying much. We sell Royal Worcester Waists; they are the best; thoroughly investigate; then you will know the truth of this saying. The Royal Worcester is the best in the world.

All-Wool Challies

ARE UNIVERSALLY ADMIRER; THE PRINT- ings are handsome, the texture soft; no goods drape more gracefully. They wear well and the colors are always reliable; navy blues and black grounds are always scarce. We show over 50 different patterns in navy blue and black grounds alone; they are all neat patterns, all new this season; the price is 60c a yard; we show the same styles in half-wool, same widths; they look fully as well; the price a trifle over one half, 35c a yard. The best judges cannot tell the difference when they are made up. Why pay the difference in price? The assortment is fully as large as in the all-wools.

Sailor Hats, the new

SHAPES 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50. Ladies' Trimmed Hats in Wide Ribbons and Flowers, 95c, $1.00, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.50. Leghorn Hats, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00; all new shapes. We make it a point to show the latest, treat the trade well, sell goods at a reasonable profit and give first-class style in our Millinery Department. Plenty of Flowers, Ribbons and Laces that cannot be found elsewhere. We have a large stock of both Ribbons and Laces in the Dry Goods Department to draw upon. This helps along the prices on all kinds of Millinery. These advantages are favorable to you.

Here is a little lot of LACE STRIPE ORGANDIES WITH ELEGANT Flower Designs. They are the nearest to French Printings of anything yet offered. The price is 25c. If the same goods had been made in France and imported into this country they would sell for 65c a yard. They are a fine black lawn with a Satin Stripe and open lace work with Choice Printings to relieve them. The colors are fast black and the best line of American goods we have ever shown. Think of the price, 25c a yard. You can't tell them from 65c goods.

Figured Moire Sateen

IS ONE OF THE NEWEST THINGS IN French Printings; printed on the finest cloth, and Moired. They look like a silk; the price is 50c a yard; they are worth it. Trim them in lace or ribbon or both and you have a beautiful dress.

In the spring of 1832 William Cullen Bryant was invited by a brother to pay him a visit. At that time Mr. Bryant was a famous man—perhaps the best-known of the American poets. He had written "Thanatopsis" some ten years before, and revealed so great poetic gifts in that poem that many persons thought it impossible that a youth could have composed so sublime a poem as that. He had written other poems that had increased his fame,

"Well, now, I suppose I do, or else I shouldn't read it. But I haven't read much. I have got a copy of Shakespeare and I have read a good deal of his plays, although there are some things in them that are too deep for me. The fact is, we don't get many books out here, and perhaps if I find some other poet I might like him better than Shakespeare."

"You are going away to fight Black Hawk and his savages?" said Mr. Bryant.

"Well, we are going away to hunt him up, but we are going a good deal

"Well," replied Mr. Bryant, "if I am not mistaken, that young man has some unusual mental quality. He has plenty of humor, but he has a good deal more than humor. He is a poet."

Just then the company started and Mr. Bryant again met the captain to bid him farewell, and as he did so he told him that although in a few months they would be separated by a thousand miles, yet he would be at that same time in the future, he would see him. The captain smiled and said: "Well, you won't hear of me as a poet, and I reckon I shall hear a good deal more of you as one. But

Most Drunkenness in Prohibition States
(Dr. Leslie E. Keeley.) Iowa, while presumably a prohibition State, stood second in the number of patients it contributed to my institutes. I have no faith in prohibition as a remedy for drunkenness. The singular fact that the prohibition States are the most prolific in drunkenness. I do not attribute this to the quality of liquor drunk, but to the fact that in these States the drunkard is a social drinker, a thirsty more easily debauched.

Suffer not your lute to trill
Softly in idyllic sighs;
Be a trumpet, in its call,
Be cannon, charged with ball—
Peal and thunder, roll and kill.

Peal and roar as days go by,
Till the last oppressor dies;
And until the world is free,
Let your song from henceforth be
Of military battle cry.

The magnitude of this advantage is due to the unequalled facilities concentrated in this store. They are not approached elsewhere. We meet the broad, indefinite and irresponsible statements now in vogue concerning qualities and prices with the witness of concrete items. The lists could be increased by thousands of articles. If one thing were understood the volume of the business would immediately double, namely: That people should fully comprehend what this house and its methods can do in supplying personal wants. Southern California shoppers have generally an extraordinary knowledge of goods and values, but an astounding number are careless or ignorant concerning the best and cheapest way of buying at retail. To stimulate the unmindful to carefulness is the purpose of our advertising.
